JANUARY 1921

Saturday 1

Louisburg

Fine, partly clear wind north west moderately cold.

General holiday. Business places closed. Spent the day painting inside the new store.

Was awakened at about 6:45 A.M. by some person trying to gain entrance to my new store (where I have been rooming since Dec. 17th). I arose quietly and dressed but before I was ready to receive him he ceased operations and fled, but before doing so had removed the putty from one side of one of the window panes. No clue to his identity.
