Sydney Post, Jan 29, 1930

MAYOR ELECTED BY ACCLAMATION AT LOUISBURG

Two seats at Council Board still remain vacant, Nobody seeking election in Each case.

Today was nomination day at Louisburg where the term of office of the Mayor and three councillors had expired. When nominations ceased at five o'clock, the only ones to file their nomination papers were Mayor M.S. Huntington, who is elected Mayor again by acclamation and Councillor Clarence Peters, who was seeking re-election. No candidates filed papers for the two other vacant seats at the Council Board and a situation not unlike that of the town of Dominion, a year ago has arisen. For several months, since Councillor Alfred Tilley resigned from the Council, the Louisburg Council Board has been a man short. The other retiring councillor besides Councillor Peters, this term was Councillor Daniel Fleet, who is not seeking re-election.

On account of the unusual situation that has arisen, Mayor Huntington will set a day for an election to be held to fill the two vacant seats at the Council Board.

The Council as it now stands is as follows:

Mayor: M.S. Huntington

Councillors: Norman McRury

Jeremiah Smith

James Crowdis

Clarence Peters

Death at Sydney of Samuel P. Challoner, age 61 years.

Norman D. MacPherson of Bay St. Lawrence, Victoria Co. N.S. murdered by William MacAskill of the same place.

SYDNEY POST OCT 7, 1930

A Good Man Gone

The "Spectator", published at Annapolis Royal, says: In the death of Samuel P. Challoner, which occurred at his home in Sydney on Sept 18 at the age of 61. Cape Breton lost one of her most enterprising, faithful and useful citizens. Mr. Challoner was a son of the late James Challoner, a native of England, but for many years eminent in the fish business in northern Cape Breton and a very sterling character. S.P.'s mother was formerly Magdalen Plante, a member of an old family of North Sydney. Inheriting a strong patriotic love for his native place, Mr. Challoner won the constant esteem of the people among whom he grew up and lived. No climate, in his opinion was quite so splendid, no scenery so attractive, no country so endowed with valuable resources as those of Cape Breton. It was no wonder that he developed a natural talent for writing and when he began his newspaper career by writing for the Island Reporter in 1889, he struck a line of endeavor in which he was constantly active until his death. Physically unable to be as active as some boys, his faculties of observation seemed to be the more keen on that account. As secretary of the Cape Breton Tourist Association he compiled, prepared and circulated the splendid illustrated tourist books issued by that organization in recent years and was a mine of information, always courteous and reliable, for any visitor with whom he came in touch. His three score years of life added to the joy of all who knew him and none will say that the world was not the better for his having tarried on this mundane sphere.

Word received that Archibald MacDonald (Turner) of Catalone has been missing since Monday, Sept 22nd, when he left home to go to Little Lorraine, to engage in Carpenter work. No uneasiness was felt for his safety until yesterday evening when it was discovered that he had not reached his destination. A party of his neighbors were scouring the woods for him today but failed to find any trace. In the afternoon in company with James Crowdis, James Nicholson, and Laurie Skinner, I motored to Little Lorraine and made inquiries respecting the missing man. From there we went to his home at Catalone. Returning we arrived home at 5:30 P.M. In the evening Mariners Lodge A.F. & A.M. offered a reward of $25.00 for the discovery of his whereabouts. Mr. MacDonald is upwards of 80 years of age.
